

Big corporations owning many TV stations will create a biased and skewed image of our world, as big corporations have their own agenda. opinions and politics, supporting or opposing certain viewpoints, etc. This should not be the case, the media should be neutral and factual, not a political tool for propaganda. The only solution to this increasing police state like organization is diversification, not concentration, so many voices can be heard, not just one.